BY F. G. VOSBURGH

Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 22.—From the first Roosevelt-MacDonald conference there emerged today a mutual understanding of viewpoints, clearing the way, possibly, for definite progress toward rehabilitating the world's financial and economic structure.

In a quiet and earnest talk that stretched far into the night, President Roosevelt and his week-end guest, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain, explored the entire range of international financial and commercial problems. They talked alone together, with even their most intimate advisers barred.

Points which took on increasing clarity in the wake of their discussion were these:

A willingness on the part of Great Britain to discuss stabilization of world currencies on a revised international standard.

A yielding by Great Britain to the view of the American government that the question of war debt re-

'ACCIDENTAL' IS DEATH VERDICT

Coroner Rules in Automobile-Buggy Accident Thursday Night

A verdict of accidental death resulting from a fatal hemorrhage was returned by Coroner Ernest F. Sturgis in an inquest conducted at the O. G. Stark funeral home Friday as an aftermath of the collision of an automobile and horse-drawn buggy in which Felix Henry Williams, 72, of Salem, was fatally injured Thursday night.

Williams, 72, faithful custodian of the Salem public library for more than 30 years and first Negro graduate of Salem High school, died at the City hospital at 5:30 a. m. Friday from injuries sustained in the mishap. His buggy was struck by an automobile driven by Edwin McCarty of 27 Vesper st., Akron.

McCarty was exonerated. Coroner Sturgis, following a conference with Prosecuting Attorney George E. Lafferty and Police Chief Ralph Stoffer, reported that there was no evidence upon which a verdict other than "unavoidable accident" might be based.

The death of Williams takes from the city a familiar and popular figure. He was an honor graduate of Salem High school, attended Mount Union college and was a lifelong resident of Salem and vicinity.

Funeral service will be held at 2:30 p. m. Monday at the A. M. E. Zion church. Burial will be made at Hope cemetery.

Friends may call at the home, south of Salem on the Depot rd. Sunday afternoon and evening.

CRADLE PHONE CHARGE BANNED

Ruling Applies to Those in Service Three Years or More

(By Associated Press) COLUMBUS, O., April 22.—The Ohio Bell Telephone company and the Cincinnati Suburban Bell Telephone company today were ordered by the state utilities commission to cease collecting the extra 25 cent charge for cradle type telephones in cases where the phones have been in use three years or more.

The commission's order will permit the company to charge the additional 25 cent fee in cases where the cradle type phone has just been installed or in future cases until the company has collected $9, the additional cost of this type phone over the manual or upright instrument.

Those who have had the cradle telephone in use for more than three years and have paid more than $9 are not entitled to any rebate. Where the phone was in service three years and then discontinued, the utilities group held the subscriber was not entitled to rebate.

If the cradle phone has been in service less than three years, the companies are permitted to continue the charge until it has collected $9, but the customer must be given credit for the amounts already paid in.

All three members of the commission concurred in the order.

FREED ON $20,000 BOND, BEGINS MOVE FOR NEW HEARING

Second Degree Verdict Calls For Life Imprisonment but Sentence Is Deferred by Judge G. H. Gessner

Cyrus H. Neff, Canfield lumber and feed dealer, today was released on bond of $20,000 while his attorneys opened a legal battle for a new trial and an appeal from a verdict returned by a jury in Mahoning county common pleas court, Youngstown, which convicted him on a charge of second degree murder.

After deliberating for almost 13 hours, a jury of six men and six women rendered its verdict in Judge George H. Gessner's court at 10:38 p. m. Friday, an announcement being made immediately by Atty. Clyde Osborne, chief counsel for the defense, that a motion would be filed for a new trial.

Neff and Osborne appeared before Judge Gessner at 11 a. m. today, posting the $20,000 bond necessary for the convicted man's temporary freedom. The bond was accepted by the court, Neff being then released from the county jail where he had been held prisoner for eight weeks.

No sentence was imposed by Judge Gessner pending the outcome of Atty. Osborne's appeal for a new trial. The verdict of the court carries a sentence of life imprisonment with a possibility of a pardon.

Neff showed no emotion when members of the jury filed into the courtroom last night. He was calm when the verdict was read by Judge Gessner, but his two daughters, Mrs. Mary Reebel and Mrs. Marjorie Whittle, who have remained faithfully at their father's side throughout the hearing, broke down and sobbed loudly.

Many Bring Lunches

Scores of persons brought their lunches and stayed in the courtroom from early morning until the verdict was returned.

The state contended Neff deliberately aimed the shotgun which went off in his hands the night of October 20, 1932, and instantly killed his wife while she slept on a couch at their home in Canfield.

The defense asserted the gun was discharged accidentally when Neff touched a pillow with the weapon to awaken Mrs. Neff.

Though somewhat surprised at the verdict, Neff expressed a determination today to fight to the last for his freedom and seemed in good spirits. He told county attorneys last night he expected a verdict of manslaughter rather than second degree murder.

What's a Promise?

REVERLY HILLS, Cal., April 22.—Well, there just ain't much to write about today but gold and there ain't much gold to write about. There is one good thing about this whole economic move.

A dumb man knows just as much about it as a smart one does, for I bet you there is not a man in America could tell you exactly what it will lead to. For, after all, a printing press can make you awful rich (for a little while).

Here is something you might have forgot. In the campaign last fall the Republicans said if the Democrats got in they would inflate money, and the Democrats swore they wouldn't. But who can remember a campaign promise? I don't know how I ever happened to remember that one, but let'er go.

We are all on a drunk for the time being, anyhow, and the darn thing might accidentally work permanently.

Yours,
Will Rogers

SITTING ON GOLD

Events of the last few days have made Americans acutely conscious of gold. They have learned to think of it in the form with which they are least familiar—the bar hidden away in a vault. In their imagination they can see a figure of Uncle Sam sitting rigidly on a great pile of such bars. It is the second largest pile in the world and it isn't going to be depleted.

There still is a presidential order outstanding calling for the return of hoarded gold and gold certificates to federal reserve banks. Hoarders were given until the first of May to give up their gold under threat of exposure. Until the order is changed, they must consider carefully what it is best for them to do.

Within the last few days they have had further evidence of the government's intention to get and keep all the gold it can reach and hold. Considered together with what has been happening to citizens who tried to take the gold standard seriously by converting currency tokens into metal, it is obvious that the United States has been going off and now is definitely off the gold standard which used to be its symbol of economic salvation.

The government possesses more than 75 per cent of all the gold in the United States. It has no intention of allowing its holdings to decrease. The dollar will get along abroad without benefit of gold exports to hold up its artificial value. At home the dollar will be cheapened both by the suggestion and actual practice of inflation. It must be realized that the gold standard is dead as a doer—and that it died of natural causes.

One wonders what ultimately will be its disposition. Even in the excitement of the moment there are calm voices assuring the people that the gold standard is an iniquitous thing, that it has retarded civilization's progress as much as the conception of a flat earth retarded it centuries ago. These voices predict the dawn of a new economic day when symbols of value will represent commodity prices instead of an arbitrary amount of a comparatively useless metal which has been collected patiently in dark vaults and which now represents nothing so much as a very large and very hungry white elephant which tradition says must be cherished.

INDUSTRIAL SUPREME COURT

A substitute bill which Secretary of Labor Perkins will explain to the house committee on labor next Monday contains provisions for establishment of labor boards to manage relationships between workers and employers. It marks another step in the direction of centralized control of national economic machinery.

The real question seems to be the power of these industrial "supreme courts" to enforce decisions if they were established. Going back to the World War period when President Wilson established the national war labor board "to govern relations between workers and employers", one finds that this organization had no legal authority. But it had influence, nevertheless.

That influence was derived from the people's conception of the emergency which the nation faced. The government had extraordinary power, due to the tremendous rate at which it was buying goods. Distribution of raw materials was under federal control. Producers could abide by the rules or get out of the game.

Undoubtedly, there are many fields in which boards to control wages and hours during these difficult times in industry could function with beneficial results, if they could be equipped to function. The "if" is an important factor. It is apparent that under existing circumstances the federal government has no means of equipping them to do anything more than serve as clearing houses of information. There must be a better and less intricate way of doing the job they have been planned to do.

What Others Say

SECURITY OF THE FARM

The farmer has been an object of envy to many city dwellers with reduced incomes in recent years. The thought has been that, despite the serious conditions of agriculture from a marketing standpoint, the farmer nevertheless need not go hungry or shelterless; whatever happens to his market he can raise food for himself and family it has been pointed out often.

This, of course, is the basis of the "back-to-the-land" movement that has been noticeable in industrial centers hard hit by the depression. A factor often overlooked, however, is that farming has become more and more specialized in years of prosperity.

The depression, wrecking the markets for their specialized crops, has dealt a severe blow and brought real hardship to these farmers.

Now, the Department of Agriculture reports, the swing is turning back to diversified farming. Farmers in increasing numbers, the department says, are grinding their own flour, keeping more eggs and milk for home use, canning more fruits and vegetables and slaughtering more animals for their own consumption. Those who are drifting back to the farms from the cities are following a similar course.

The result is an increasing number of self-sufficient farmers, to whom hunger is not a serious menace. That type of farm life is more like the farm life of the pioneers than the large scale production of later years.

It offers no opportunity for the accumulation of wealth, it means a life of hard work and few luxuries, but at the same time it carries an accompaniment of security that will be welcomed by many today.—Columbus Clifton.

The Stars Say:

For Sunday, April 23

Sunday's horoscope, while favoring the church, clergy and elderly persons and institutions, may be expected to unfold some stirring and perhaps devastating adventures. The surprising, abrupt and disruptive are possible, with tendencies to acts rash, impetuous and violent. This may incite unhappiness, thwart the best interests and provoke some manner of personal danger or accident.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year calling for much cool and restrained management of their affairs, less defeat, personal danger, disruption and surprising adventures be precipitated. Shun impulsive moves, disputes and all reckless activities. Elders may flourish and with caution confer favors. Abrupt change may wield a far-reaching influence on the life. A child born on this day may be fiery, aggressive, impetuous and tumultuous, fond of sudden change and high adventure. Also studious and profound in thought.

Notable nativity: Edwin Markham, poet.

For Monday, April 24

Monday's astrological chart holds testimony of a particularly lively and eventful day, with all the forces and faculties under high stimulus. This applies to the personal as well as business life, with much stirring also in employment by way of advancing in the favor or preference of those able to render substantial service or benefit. In private life, pleasure, social excitement, and romantic adventure are forecast.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year of delightful activities both in their private affairs, in employment, in business and in all projects of initiative and enterprise. All forces and faculties are under splendid stimulus for advancement, achievement and the attainment of success and happiness, but beware speculation, law, extravagances and excessive indulgences. A child born on this day should be excellently endowed with talents, graces, energy and power to attain position, success and happiness in life.

Notable nativity: Anthony Trollope, author.

Beatrice Lillie does not like synopses "Lady Peeling" her. Frank Case is Douglas Fairbanks' New York confidante. Ted Lewis always registers from his home town, Circleville, O. William Seaman is a sucker for every new game. James Montgomery Flagg eats cheese for breakfast.

Tallulah Bankhead sends back to the Alabama general store for a bucket of red drops now and then. Coxy, the insurance man, knows every cartoonist in America. Charles B. Driscoll still carries his boyhood Barlow.

Helen Morgan uses a dash of brandy in her morning coffee. Aunt Jimma eats scarcely anything. And Bide Dudley has the appetite of a wolf. Peter Arno's extravagance is neckties. George Cohan's dog begins limping when you say "Poor Doggie".

Pay Marbe has practiced dancing three hours a day for ten years. Robert Garland has never tasted cake. Paul Whitehead has 80 gift cigarette cases. Adolph Zukor carries change in a snap purse. Antonio Scotti lost 15 pounds after his operatic retirement.

One of Broadway's beloved good fellows is Robert Hague, oil magnate and husband of Mary Lewis, singer. His life is bright with the legend of many generations to those down on their luck and his private pension list is probably the largest in town. He is a bluff gentleman whose lot is cast often with the busy crews of the many oil tankers he controls. Several weeks after his marriage to the operatic lady he remarked one evening after dinner:

From an etiquette column: "No gentleman could dine comfortably without a napkin."

The back of my hand to you, sir.

"They tell me you are a singer. Go ahead and entertain me." And he promptly snored through an hour's programme of trilling runs and high C's.

The nimble dancing man, Clifton Webb, was shunted to his feathered career as a result of a disappointed ambition. He acted to be a painter and George Bellows was his idol. Unable to continue art lessons, he went into the Metropolitan ballet to tide over his fortunes. Out of this grew his interest and proficiency in the dance. And perhaps the best dancer of his type since Vernon Castle.

Another art—or perhaps knack—Webb has acquired in his professional upswing is a jauntiness in dress few actors acquire. He can set off a lapel flower in a way that sends gentlemen buckity-buckity to florists and the dip he gives to a Homberg or the angle to a high hat has kept innumerable Brummels before mirrors for hours. Just practicing.

Among Jimmy Walker's closest friends in New York is Walter Herrick, known to intimates as "Duke" and who was appointed Park Commissioner by the former Mayor. They were schoolboys together and classmates at college, and save for Herrick's mustache, could pass for twins. Walker to Herrick is "Jim," the invariable name used by those who knew Walker before he entered politics and went over the horizon.

Still another striking resemblance is that between Mae West and Blossom Seeley. The similarity is only marked when they are standing still or sitting. Miss West's walk, like the brittle of high-tension steel, is a certain give-away. No one strides so lightly.

It was interesting, too, at a dinner the other evening to note how astonishingly Eddie Foy Jr. is, in fuller maturity, resembling his lovable father. Even to the uncontrollable upshoot of hair in the back. There is droop also to the side of his mouth when he talks and that tilt of the head so notably Poylan. One more entry in this Replica Derby and I'm done. Close your eyes when Frank Morgan is talking and if it doesn't sound like Lionel Barrymore there'll be a cookie for you on the second shelf of the pantry. Right next to the spice box.

The back of my hand to you, sir.

Many of the common infections and minor injuries of the hand could be avoided by proper care. Bear in mind that the pores of the skin are heavily laden with dirt and dust. This is especially true of the skin of the hands which come in contact with many objects. Repeated washing with warm water and soap is the most satisfactory cleansing method. Abrasions, lacerations, pin pricks and other injuries of the hand should receive immediate attention and the application of an antiseptic.

Do Not Neglect Hangnail
"Paronychia" is a harsh word. It is the medical name for an infection around the edge or root of a nail. It is commonly called a "run around." Paronychia is regarded as having come from an infection with the "staphylococcus" germ traced to neglect in the hygiene of the hands.

The skin serves many purposes. Through it, certain waste products are passed off the body. This is accomplished by sweating.

The skin contains many small nerve endings. They send messages to the brain and relay warnings of heat, cold, roughness, smoothness, hardness and other sensations. Primarily the skin serves as a covering to protect the structures lying beneath it.

Don't Neglect a Break In Skin

Germ can enter the tissues beneath the skin only when there is a tear or break in the surface. So simple a thing as a pin prick may permit the infection to take place. Often the injury is so slight as to be entirely overlooked. Amputated fingers and in some cases the loss of a hand may be traced to neglect of a minor infection of the finger.

Abrasions around the nails are daily occurrences. They are especially common if your work requires constant use of the hands. "Hang nail" is a common finger annoyance. Neglect of a hang nail or other skin abrasions permits germs to get beneath the skin and nail. These germs cause inflammation and the formation of pus.

A throbbing sensation is the first sign of infection. The finger becomes red and swollen. Sleep and rest are often impossible because of the severe pain. The nail becomes dark, raised at the edge, and extremely painful to touch.

Salves and ointments are of no value in the cure of this affliction. It can only be relieved by a small incision which permits the pus to escape. The earlier this is done the quicker the cure of the infection.

Keep Hands Clean

In rare instances the skin may break and allow some of the pus to escape. This relieves the tension and the pain is greatly diminished. Unfortunately, the relief is only of short duration. Sooner or later the pus again accumulates, the nail becomes distorted and pain and discomfort are felt. When this occurs the condition is called "chronic paronychia." It requires a larger incision and takes longer to heal.

Many of the common infections and minor injuries of the hand could be avoided by proper care. Bear in mind that the pores of the skin are heavily laden with dirt and dust. This is especially true of the skin of the hands which come in contact with many objects. Repeated washing with warm water and soap is the most satisfactory cleansing method. Abrasions, lacerations, pin pricks and other injuries of the hand should receive immediate attention and the application of an antiseptic.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

By Wanda Barton

A ROOM OF HER OWN WHERE DAUGHTER CAN PLAY HOSTESS

A room of her own, a room that will be not only for sleeping purposes, but a room of gracious hospitality in which she can receive her friends. What girl won't thrill to the thought of such a room and what girl won't adore even more the kindly parents who have made it possible for her?

These remarks are the outcome of a lengthy correspondence with one of my readers. Although, perhaps it wasn't quite in province, she asked me a question in dealing with her 17-year-old daughter. The girl had nice clothes, everything she wanted, but she wasn't happy. An inquiry brought the information that her room was one of those nondescript affairs, furnished with odd pieces, just a room. And so, it was agreed upon to alter the room and see if that wouldn't alter the disposition of the girl.

This winter she went away to visit friends and while she was away, her mother and I worked on a scheme for a real room, that was to be more of a sitting room than a bedroom, modeled on the rooms so popular at college.

With the letter descriptive of the girl's happiness and her mother's gratitude, the correspondence file closes. But perhaps you might like to know something about the room that worked such a transformation. In a bed, we decided on a daybed, a nice one of good maple, and quite inexpensive. A good maple chest of drawers served to hold all daughter's personal effects. The closet was refitted with hangers, shoe racks, hat stands, all in one pleasing color, in this case a deep rose. There were garment bags of the same shade and the closet looked really lovely and, by the way, helped to make a girl who was rather indifferent about clothes and their disposal, into a very tidy, dainty person.

Fitting Out the Room

A nice desk with arm chairs on either side, a nice straight backed colonial chair in front, hanging book floor lamp and a couple of nice etchings on either side of the hanging book shelves, created a harmonious useful grouping. The ugly radiator was covered with one of the all-enclosing devices that are so effective and inexpensive just now and the top gave additional table space for books or a plant.

The daybed was given a drapery of glazed chintz in a flower pattern against a warm background and three pillows had the same covering. In addition there were cushions of plain silk whose color picked up the dominant note in the color scheme of the drapery. The same glazed chintz was used for the overdrapes at the window, the glass curtains being of marquisette. The chairs on either side of the desk have coverings that also harmonize with the drapes and bed coverings.

Of course, there were additional things, such as book ends, pictures, a nice set for the writing desk, a lamp for the table that stood at one end of the daybed, and a dainty clock. But the cost was most reasonable, and out of all proportion to the results achieved in both room and girl. She is proud of her room, entertains her friends in it, and what is more, is so fiercely possessive that she looks after it entirely on her own.

Don't you think that there is a moral in this true story?

New Fittings For The Home

With the thought of the refurbishing that always goes on in the house at this time of year, we present news of some of the very interesting new things clumped in a survey of stores and manufacturers' showrooms. There are now decorative devices aplenty, the majority of them most reasonably priced.

Without changing the doors of your home, they can be most effectively altered and beautified by new hardware. Knobs, handles and knockers of all types, as well as keyplates, most of them very ornamental are now being highlighted by several stores.

Antique Door Knockers

None of these pieces are specially designed, all are stock and not expensive, none of bubble or pressed glass are really effective and will brighten up the door and the room. A very modern handle is of black glass banded in chromium, good only for a room of the modern type, of course. There is a matching key-plate. For the more old-fashioned room, one that is rather Victorian in character, there are red and white china doorknobs, and for the room of still older design, there are knobs of Georgian design in Wedgwood.

As for knockers, there are plenty of every type, ranging from antique Spanish to very modern affairs in chromium and steel. The brass colonial reproductions of those of the English type, also in antique brass, are a good choice generally. Of course, you'll be careful, though, to co-locate, key-plate, escutcheon, knob or handle and knocker if you are shopping for the doors of your home, which we hope that you will. You'll be surprised and gratified at the results.

"THE CHALLENGE OF LOVE"

by WARWICK DEEPING

SYNOPSIS

Dr. John Wolfe, old Dr. Montague Threadgold's assistant, is stunned at the unsanitary conditions he finds in the smug little town of Navestock. Wolfe realizes his greatest fight will be in overcoming the resentful attitude of the people themselves who seem perfectly satisfied with their mode of living. He encounters his first obstacle in the person of Jasper Turrell the brewer, who objects to Wolfe taking a sample of his well water for analysis. Undaunted by opposition, Wolfe continues his researches and prepares a map of the town's unsanitary areas. The one bright spot in Navestock is the home of Mrs. Mary Mascall where Wolfe is always sure of a welcome. He is exceptionally fond of Mrs. Mascall's young daughter, Jess. Wolfe is summoned to the home of elderly Miss Perfection, who feels heart attacks to attract attention. She is annoyed when Wolfe does not humor her and tells her there is no cause for alarm. Later, Dr. Threadgold insists that Wolfe be more tactful. The blundering old man cautions Wolfe against using too much "expensive" medicines when the "ordinary" preparations will do. Wolfe's disgust with the abounding ignorance reaches its peak when he finds three babies in the care of Mrs. Lucy Gallop drugged from a "cordial" given as a pacifier. He censures Hubbard, the chemist for selling it. Hubbard complains to old Threadgold who criticizes Wolfe. Later, Wolfe meets Jess coming from school. Her sincerity and courage give him a less cynical outlook on life.

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN

Mrs. Threadgold had chosen to be curious as to how this big, lean, brown man spent his evenings in his little bedroom at the top of Prospect House, and since curiosity is the clockwork that moves many a small mind Mrs. Threadgold remembered that Wolfe's shirt cuffs were badly frayed. It would be doing the man a kindness if she went through his linen, and arranged for one of the maids to sew new cuffs on Wolfe's shirts, and mend any socks that were in need of darning. Mrs. Threadgold accepted herself and her moral solidity with such complete seriousness that nothing that she ever did struck her as being mean and trivial. Self-criticism did not exist for her; for, did she ever catch a glimpse of her own smooth face reflected in the distorting glass of self-scorn. People who have no sense of humor will perpetrate the most astounding impertinences and convulse a whole household over the disappearance of a packet of pins.

Slyness was not part of the adventure. In fact, Mrs. Sophia felt no desire to conceal her exploration of Wolfe's room.

"Elizabeth, I am going to look through Mr. Wolfe's linen. I see that some of it is very shabby. We must see if we can do something for it."

"Yes, ma'am, some of the shirts are all holes."

LITTLE MAN GETS HIT THERE'S POWER IN BRAINS MAC DONALD HERE

—By Arthur Brisbane—
(Copyright, 1933 By King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

EVERY rich man in America asks every other rich man what leaving the gold basis means. Those that need to ask the question are men on small salaries. Prices of food and other necessities will go higher, but their salaries will not go higher—or, at best, rise slowly.

It would have been a good idea to have left the gold basis before nationwide salary reductions were forced on employers.

As usual, when big things happen, it is the "little man" who gets hit. In the war he got shot. In panics he gets poor. In depressions his wages go down. Off the gold basis, his dollar is worth less.

But he is very patient.

ANOTHER BIG Wall Street day, 5,000,000 shares sold, not as big as Thursday, prices not so gay. The dollar recovered its health and went up a little. That discouraged stock prices. It was the turn of European money to drop.

Anybody who imagined that the United States would print unlimited quantities of money, simply because green paper is cheap, made a mistake.

IT SHOULD fill you with pride to know that you have in your brain "four quadrillions of electric motors that generate power for thought." Four quadrillions is a good many.

Put down, with 15 zeros after it, thus, 4,000,000,000,000,000, and you have it.

You get this gratifying information from Dr. George W. Crile of Cleveland, a really great scientist. In the Bible man says, "I will praise the Lord for I am fearfully and wonderfully made." Dr. Crile proves it for him.

Dr. Crile says "mind is a product of electricity generated by matter." The brain, if you please, produces short-wave and infra-red radiation. Electrons are ejected from the brain protoplasm with the emission of these waves, and "these electrons set up the electric current responsible for our thinking and reasoning processes."

PREMIER MACDONALD of Great Britain arrives here smiling, just in time to see Uncle Sam fall off the gold basis and land on his feet.

MacDonald says he comes to discuss "war on unmerited poverty." Not quite all the poverty is "unmerited."

Whoever started that big war device, all he got and more. But nobody will ever know who started it, who the "Mrs. O'Leary's cow" was that kicked over that lantern. Perhaps no one started it and it just happened. When will it "happen" again?

THE new giant dirigible Macon, on its trial flight, carried 103 persons, including 11 officers, 31 engineers, eight members of the naval board of inspection and Good-year-Zeppelin Co. inspectors.

The biggest airship in existence, 785 feet long, it typifies Uncle Sam's determination not to let anything discourage him.

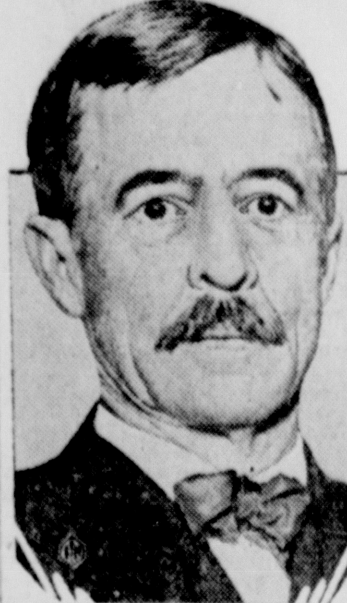

If Germany can build and operate dirigibles safely, this country can do it, and will prove it.

Meanwhile, the mismanagement, or whatever it was, that caused the loss of the Akron should be investigated carefully. A ship nearly 800 feet long flying only 1,600 feet above the ocean, about twice her own length, and flying directly into a thunderstorm with its terrific up and down air currents, was not fairly treated to put it mildly, and the destruction should not be dismissed as "an act of God."

MAX GREENBURG, chief of a New Jersey "beer gang," recently murdered, in the course of his professional duties, carried a list of 27 names. Opposite some he had written "don't try"; opposite others "OK." He wrote numbers and makes of automobiles used by the "OK's." He wrote numbers and makes of automobiles used by the "OK's."

And, it may interest you mildly, all were names of gentlemen on the government payroll supposed to enforce prohibition. What could the "OK" and the "don't try" mean?

and F. M. Harpham, vice-president of the Goodyear-Zeppelin corp. that built both craft, were less restrained.

"The maiden flight of the Macon was a complete success," said Dr. Arnstein. "The ship performed better than we could have hoped for."

Will Meet Speed Demand

Harpham said "the day's tests were even more successful than had been hoped."

Rear Admiral George Day, chief of the naval board of inspection that must approve the Macon before she will be accepted by the navy, said "speed trials indicate the ship probably should meet her contract speed," of 84 miles an hour.

Immediately after Sunday's flight, if conducted, Captain Dredel is expected to leave for Washington to testify Monday before the hearing into the crash of the Akron that cost 73 lives.

Ruth's Second Homer Aids Yanks In Victory; Cleveland Wins

THE DAY IN SPORTS

GANGSTERS—BOXING
CALL SPORTS WRITER

A SPORTS WRITER'S charge that Gorilla Jones had been intimidated by gangsters before his fight with Ben Jey, declared "no contest" at the end of six rounds Wednesday night, received the attention today of the Cleveland boxing commission.

James W. Schlemmer, who wrote in The Akron Beacon-Journal that "Jones was afraid to 'double-cross' the New Yorkers. He was afraid of gangsters," will be asked to appear before the commission Tuesday when Jey and Jones have been ordered to show cause why their $5,400 share of the gate receipts should be released to them, Chairman Al Supplin said.

Meanwhile, Hymie Caplin, manager of Jey, branded the "mention of gangsters in connection with that fight as a laugh."

"From my point of view," he added, "the fight was absolutely on the level. Jey was in there against a man who is admittedly hard to hit and he was fighting in the best way to meet Jones' style."

BOTH JEY, recognized as the world middleweight champion by the New York boxing commission, and Jones, acknowledged as the American titleholder by the National Boxing Association, were suspended for a year by the N. B. A. which supervises boxing in 32 states. Supplin said the N. B. A. had requested the New York commission to take similar action against both fighters and their managers.

Caplin raised a question of possible breach of contract by the Cleveland boxing commission in his statement on the affair. "Our contract," he said, "says that the referee shall be the sole judge of all affairs. Yet the referee did not stop the fight. The boxing commission took it out of his hands, wrongfully."

The commission by resolution agreed to refund to the nearly 8,000 spectators a proportionate share of the $5,400 withheld from the fighters. The city law department was instructed to determine whether the refunds of admissions could be made. The commission also disbursed Eddie Mead, matchmaker of the Jey-Jones fight "pending an investigation concerning this fracas."

Yesterday's STARS

(By Associated Press)
BUMP HADLEY, Browns—Blanked Whitesox with two hits and one walk.
PTE TRAYNOR, Pirates—Clouted double with bases full against Cincinnati.

ORAL HILDEBRAND, Indians—Shut out Tigers with five hits, fanning six.
FRANK HOGAN, Braves—Made two of Boston's four hits against Giants and drove in one run.

EARLE COMBS, Yankees—Clouted two doubles and single against Red Sox.

SPARKY ADAMS and GEORGE WATKINS, Cardinals—Rapped Chicago pitching for four hits apiece.

Kenyon Tossers Lose To Wooster

(By Associated Press)
WOOSTER April 22—Three Wooster hurlers were slings with their hits while their teammates bombarded two Kenyon pitchers to turn in a 15-1 victory.

The Scots combined 13 hits with seven Kenyon errors to score almost at will. Bob Fuhrman, of Wooster, hit a homer with the bases full in the first inning.

BATTERS LAUNCH ATTACKS; TRIBE BLANKS DETROIT

Oral Hildebrand Allows but Five Hits; Cissell Stars at Bat

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, Jr., Associated Press Sports Writer

While the pitchers still are in control of the situation, major league batters are showing signs of breaking loose and creating the usual carnage in the curving department. One round of seven games yesterday saw five teams held to five hits each or fewer, but at the same time the Yankees' bats opened up with 18 blows against the Boston Red Sox; the St. Louis Cardinals piled up a 14 hit total, and Pittsburgh's Pirates slugged out a 5-1 victory over the Cincinnati Reds in one big inning.

Ruth Clouts Homer
For the Yanks, Babe Ruth hoisted his second homer of the season over the scoreboard in left field and every Yankee except Pitcher Charley Ruffing got at least two hits for a 7-5 decision.

The Athletics were outbait by Washington, but Pitcher Cain was effective in the pinches and Connie Mack's club won a 3-1 triumph. Buddy Myers' homer was the only Senator score.

Chalmers (Bill) Cissell of Cleveland did some lousy clouting to back Oral Hildebrand's five hit hurling and lead the Indians to a 5-0 victory over the Tigers. Cissell nicked Lyn Rowe for a homer, a double and a single.

The only American league game in which pitching played the biggest part saw the St. Louis Browns defeat Chicago's White Sox 4 to 0. Irving (Bump) Hadley turned back the clouting Chicagoans with two singles.

Pirates Beat Reds
Pittsburgh didn't get started scoring until the eighth inning, when a pinch single by Forrest Jensen started the Bucs off on a five run rally. Jim Bottomley hit a homer for Cincinnati's only run as Swift and Harris granted but three hits. The result gave the Pirates the National league lead.

The Braves took advantage of Hal Schumacher's wildness to defeat the New York Giants 3-1. The defeat knocked the Giants off the unbeaten list and brought the Braves their first victory.

Sparky Adams and George Watkins led the Cardinals out of a batting slump to a 4-0 triumph over the Chicago Cubs.

Brooklyn and Philadelphia had an open date.

Morgan Vows Hitting Slump Is Over

INTRODUCING THE INDIANS
Hopes to Regain Old Form This Year

EDDIE MORGAN, the Indians' hard hitting first baseman, hails from New Orleans, Louisiana, where he is known as the "Tulane Flash."

While in college was one of the greatest blocking halfbacks that his "alma mater" ever had. Also could do some fancy running with that pigskin. Won All-American mention in 1925. When not playing football and basketball, he found a little time to put in on baseball.

Enough time so that the New Orleans Club signed him when he left college. Was an outfielder with the Pelicans. Got his chance at the initial sack in Cleveland when Fonseca was injured. Never a great first baseman, but always managed to club that apple for a fancy figure.

Twice has been in the League's five leading hitters. Played his best game at first base last season, but failed to hit at his usual clip.

Uses about the same type of bat as Vognick and does a lot of swinging. Says he should have been an auto racer. Likes to drive fast. Always tours from New Orleans to Cleveland. Eddie is a member of the Casino Players' Union along with Cissell, Ferrell and Sewell.

Likes to hit best against a right-hander with a good fast ball. Never wears any inner socks under his baseball stockings. Never wore them in any sport. Is the junior partner of the Morgan Box Company when not playing ball.

Wears a truck mitt which makes one handed catches simple, but ground balls tough. Likes to play jokes on trainer "Lefty" Weissman, but doesn't get away with many. Hit twenty-six home runs in 1930 which was more than any Cleveland player ever hit until Averill hit thirty-two the next season.

Thinks Cleveland is a great place, but won't compare it with his own home town—New Orleans. Well, be it ever so humble there's no place like home.

BOWLING NEWS

(By United Press)
COLUMBUS, O., April 22—Three of the four records of the American Bowling Congress now are held by Milwaukee pinsters.

In the 1933 tournament here, Gil Zunker and Frank Benkovic of Milwaukee set a new doubles mark of 1,415. Zunker also established a new all-events record of 2,060.

The Tea Shops of Milwaukee, held the all-time five-man record of 3,109. This mark was made in 1927.

The fourth A. B. C. record—in the singles—was made by Larry Shotwell of Covington, Ky., in 1930. Shotwell's score was 774.

One-Year Holiday Fixed For Ohioans
(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, April 22—A one year holiday on trout fishing in Ohio was announced by Conservation Commissioner William H. Reinhart today.

The commissioner ordered that Mad river and its tributaries north of Springfield, and parts of the Cuyahoga and Chagrin rivers be closed tight to trout fishing this year.

In the Mad river sector, the order forbids the taking of live bait from the streams. The Cuyahoga will be closed above state route 424 in Geauga county and the Chagrin above the junction with Silver creek.

The holiday, the commissioner hopes, will give trout time in which they spawn and increase in size.

Tries Pro Ball
ATLANTA—Fred Sington, giant all-American tackle on the University of Alabama Rose-Bowl winning football team of a few years back, is expected this year to break into the role of "spark plug" for the Atlanta baseball team. He plays in the outfield, and has a regular berth in left assured. His hitting in exhibition games has been very exceptional. Doubles, triples and homers. Major league managers, who have seen him in action, predict an outstanding career for Sington. He bats, incidentally, in the clean-up position.

Back in the United States on the trail of the world's featherweight crown, Seaman Watson, champion of the British Isles, is pictured as he arrived at New York on the S. S. Olympic. Watson created a favorable impression here when he decisively defeated Fidel La Barba of California. He now hopes for a bout with Kid Chocolate, the titleholder.

Nation's Leading Athletes Compete In Penn Relays

(By United Press)
PHILADELPHIA, April 22—Outstanding athletes from every section of the United States will compete on Franklin Field April 28 and 29 in the 85 events of the 29th annual Pennsylvania Relay Carnival.

While H. Jamison Swarts the meet manager plans one or two individual events not now listed, he said they only would be added provided he is able to secure sufficient entries for the special events.

All the regular events, with the exception of the decathlon, have been retained, Swarts said. "The decathlon was eliminated because only a few colleges exhibited any interest in its retention."

Among the events listed are the 3,000-meter steeplechase, the 400-meter hurdles, the 800, step and jump, shuttle hurdle relay and the usual field events.

The program for the traditional two-day affair is divided into 30 events.

The program for the traditional two-day affair is divided into 30 events on Friday, the first day, and 55 listed for Saturday.

On Saturday the important college and scholastic relays will take place with the hurdles and many of the field events.

For the third year in succession the large number of entries in both the quarter and half-mile sprint relays will force the running of several heats.

The present entry lists includes 419 divided among 73 colleges and universities, 216 high schools, 39 junior high schools, 51 prep schools, 25 elementary schools and 17 parochial schools.

Heavy Ohio Rains Will Aid Fishing, Commissioner Says

COLUMBUS, April 22—When Jupiter Pluvius turned on his spigots some weeks ago, and then forgot to turn them off, he performed a real service to Ohio fishermen.

This is the opinion of State Conservation Commissioner William H. Reinhart, who said today that the heavy rainfall had resulted in high water and muddy streams, making the rivers and creeks unfit for fishing.

Indirectly, Old J. P., accomplished for the commissioner what the conservation council refused to sanction—the closing of fishing during the spawning season. He expects the streams to remain roily and high until about May, when the law closes the bass season until June 16.

Early in the year Reinhart asked the council to halt fishing from April 15 to June 15, but after a hearing, the council voted down his proposal, holding that because of economic conditions, the unemployed should be allowed to seek food in the streams of the state.

The rains, halting fishing of all kinds, will result in a great increase in the number of fish in Ohio streams of the state.

The rains, halting fishing of all kinds, will result in a great increase in the number of fish in Ohio streams, especially bass, Reinhart believes.

O'KEEFE KAYOES FOE IN OPENING ROUND OF FIGHT

Local Youth Looks Good in Debut; Perroni Trims Dickey

A hurried left jab followed by a lightning right to the chin—the man is down, the count of ten only a matter of formality.

That's the picture of Joe O'Keefe's advent into the fight game. The Salem amateur made his debut in the curtain-raiser of the Veterans of Foreign Wars boxing show Friday night, sending his opponent, Jimmie Kale of Canton, into unconsciousness after one minute and 15 seconds of fighting.

O'Keefe Looks Good

Not such a large crowd was present at the exhibition but those customers who did attend were impressed by O'Keefe's performance. The bout started slowly, each fighter apparently "feeling" his way, until suddenly O'Keefe thrust out the left jab and, seeing the opening for the right cross, sent it through and victory was his.

Walter "Young" Dickey, local sensation, fared not as well as his fellow townsman, losing a decision to Petie Perroni, classy stylist from Canton, in the four-round main prelim. Dickey found himself with back to the canvas in the second stanza but staged a great comeback and put up a fine fight all the way.

Other Bouts
Jimmie Lee of Salineville and Franke DePalmo of Sebring put on an entertaining four-round scrap, the former winning, when the Wilbur West-Kid Edwards fight didn't appear on the program. Lee was handed the decision.

Sailor Lee of Sebring decided on Danny Devore of Canton in the eight-round main go while Jimmie Shear, Canton, kayoed Butch Burgess of Sebring in the fourth round of the semi-final. It was booked for six stanzas, Shear ending it all by slapping Burgess out of the ring, the latter's seconds then throwing in the towel.

Gus Sechler refereed all bouts; decisions were given by three judges, G. W. Dunn, Michael Schuler and George Mossey. Norman Peters was timer.

The show was in charge of the V. F. W. fight committee, Henry Lundberg, Charles McGurran and Joe Mayhew.

Dalhart, Texas—Bobby Ryan, nine-years-old, can speak and read five languages. He was born of American parents, in Manila, Philippine Islands, where he had a Chinese nurse. He acquired a Japanese nurse when his family moved to Yokohama and Tokio. He learned the French and Spanish languages from books and conversation.

Varied Entertainment Booked At State Theater Next Week

WALTER HUSTON and KAREN MORLEY in "GABRIEL OVER THE WHITE HOUSE"

A sensational story about Washington and politics, a film that deals with the society circles of Great Britain and a mystery drama together make up the varied program of theater entertainment billed at the State for the coming week.

Based On U. S. Politics

Beginning Sunday and running for three days is the sensational and quite unusual story, "Gabriel Over The White House" with the versatile Walter Huston as its star.

The anonymous story on which the picture is based is already creating a stir among literary circles. As the first motion picture that has taken a United States president through the turmoil of modern days, it is considered one of the most daring films ever produced.

Supporting the star is Karen Morley, Franchot Tone, recently made a star through his performance with Joan Crawford in "Today We Live." Arthur Byron, last seen here as the warden in "20,000 Years In Sing-Sing," little Dickie Moore, C. Henry Gordon and a host of others.

La Bennett Star of New Film

Constance Bennett is the star of the Wednesday and Thursday feature — "Our Betters" and she is capably aided in the acting honors by Anita Louise, Gilbert Roland, Charles Starrett, Violet Kemble Cooper, Grant Mitchell and Phoebe Foster.

This picture was adapted to the screen from the novel by W. Somerset Maugham and its action centers in the ultra-smart and royal circles of Great Britain. The always interesting Connie portrays the role of Lady Pearl Graydon who said good-bye to an American fortune when she turned it over to an English title.

Exciting Film Billed Friday

"Zoo In Budapest" with Loretta Young, Gene Raymond and O. P. Heggie in leading roles is the mystery drama scheduled at the State the last two days of the week.

The story, built around the activities and the atmosphere of a great zoological park, deals with the romance of a young man who has lived all his life among the animals in the park—his romance with an orphan girl who comes to the zoo for a lesson in natural history—and as a way to escape from the orphanage.

The film is not gruesome—it is thrilling and very exciting and the love story is unusually gentle and tender.

Today's Features

Today's pictures show "The Great Jasper" with Richard Dix as its star at the State and "Scarlet River" with Tom Keene in the featured role at the Grand.

Donald Novis, possessor of one of the finest tenor voices on radio is to be seen and heard in a sketch at the State.
